My professors are approachable and very considerate. They also explain our lessons very well which make me love my program even more. London has a lot of parks and restaurants where I can hang out and unwind with my friends. My advice for future students is to keep working hard until you reach your goals and never quit because Fanshawe is always there for you.

Studying at Fanshawe in the Aviation Maintenance program has been a rewarding experience. It's a challenging program with lots of aircraft to work on – ranging from a small two-seat single engine aircraft to a Boeing 727. I would suggest this program to those students who like to work with both their hands and their brain.
